

AFROTOOLS SPONSORED TOOLS

Buyer-facing sponsorship product is now request-ready.

The sponsored tools section now explains what a business can sponsor, how pilots work, where API and pricing paths fit, and lets buyers submit a sponsorship brief directly from the page.

Prepared for CEO review - May 10, 2026

WHAT CHANGED

From internal sales notes to a public buying workflow.

Removed operator-facing language and rewrote the page around buyer intent, placement options, pricing ranges, and trust rules.

Added a direct sponsorship request form wired to the existing `/api/b2b-enquiry` server route.

Linked API overview, API documentation, API pricing, media kit, widgets, and custom calculators from the relevant decision points.

Cleaned adjacent commercial copy so the buyer journey stays public-facing after the first click.

WHY IT IS CREDIBLE

The product protects user trust while opening revenue paths.

Independent logic

Sponsors can buy placement, not formulas, source notes, or outputs.

Labeled paid placement

Users can tell what is sponsored and what is the core tool.

Explicit lead opt-in

Lead routing happens only through a form or request submitted by the user.

Regulated review

Tax, payroll, immigration, credit, insurance, and education claims are reviewed before launch.

Server-backed requests

The form posts through the existing Netlify function with validation and rate limiting.

Honest analytics path

Audience and traffic details are shared privately during the sponsorship conversation.

CEO NEXT MOVE

Use this as the sponsored placement sales page.

Send buyers to `/sponsored-tools/` when they want branded visibility around a specific workflow.

Send developer/data buyers to `/api/`, `/api/docs/`, and `/api/pricing` before the sponsorship form.

Use the request form as the first qualification step before quoting a pilot.

Keep launch promises conservative until the target page, sponsor CTA, compliance limits, and reporting expectation are agreed.
